Welcome to EMEC25

I am delighted to announce the 25th edition of the European Meeting on Environmental Chemistry (EMEC25), that will take place in Chania, Crete from 23rd to 25th November 2025. The event is recognized by EuChemS and supported by EuChemS-DAC Sample Preparation Study Group and Network.

EMEC events are organized on an annual basis on behalf of the Association of Chemistry and the Environment (ACE). This year, as we celebrate the 25th anniversary of ACE, EMEC25 will uphold its tradition of bringing together scientists, researchers, and industry professionals to share and discuss the latest advancements in environmental chemistry. This year's meeting will focus on advancing sustainable solutions, addressing environmental challenges, and exploring the latest breakthroughs in environmental science and technology. With a diverse program of keynote lectures, oral presentations, interactive sessions, and poster exhibitions, EMEC25 aims to spark meaningful dialogue, promote innovative research, and drive impactful solutions for a sustainable future.

The conference venue in the heart of the Venetian port in Chania, surrounded by monuments dating back to 5000 BC, provides the perfect setting for us to interact, collaborate, exchange ideas, and work towards a brighter future. The location is ideal for an unforgettable trip, and we are excited to put together a truly outstanding technically, but also fun, programme.

Looking forward to welcoming you to EMEC25,

Professor Eleftheria (Elia) Psillakis

Conference topics

EMEC25 will cover a wide range of topics that relate to recent advances in environmental chemistry and technologies. We solicit original contributions in the following topic areas:

- Environmental Monitoring
 - Emerging contaminants
 - Recent trends in the analysis of environmental samples
 - Green analytical chemistry methods and technologies
 - Sensors, on-site and real time analysis
- Sources, Fate and Transport of Pollutants
 - Atmospheric, water, and soil pollution
 - Transport and fate of pollutants in different environmental compartments
- Sustainable Solutions for Environmental Protection
 - Advances in water and wastewater treatment
 - Green chemistry and technologies
 - Circular economy and waste valorization
 - Life cycle assessment of environmental technologies
- Environmental Toxicology and Ecotoxicology
 - Toxicological effects of pollutants on human and ecosystem health
 - Risk assessment and management
- Emerging Topics in Environmental Chemistry
- Climate Change
- Policy, Regulation, and Environmental Education

Speakers

The list of plenary and keynote speakers is already confirmed and comprises internationally renowned experts, whose contributions have been outstanding. Their expertise spans a wide range of cutting-edge topics, ensuring a comprehensive and inspiring program that reflects the latest advancements and future directions in the field. The list of speakers and more information on the topics presented can be found here.

Plenary Speakers

Despo Fatta-Kassinos, University of Cyprus, Cyprus
Davide Vione, University of Turin, Italy
Apostolos Voulgarakis, Technical University of Crete, Greece

Keynote Speakers

Reda Dzingelevičienė, Klaipeda University, Lithuania
Ioannis Katsogiannis, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece
Silvia Lacorte, IDAEA-CSIC, Spain
Dionissios Mantzavinos, University of Patras, Greece
Manuel Miró, University of the Balearic Islands, Spain
Lourdes Ramos, CSIC-IQOG, Spain

Lorena Vidal, University of Alicante, Spain

Venue

The conference venue is the “Mikis Theodorakis” Theater Hall, an iconic building, located in the heart of the Venetian port in Chania, surrounded by monuments dating back to 5000 BC. The conference venue provides the perfect setting for us to interact, collaborate, exchange ideas, and work towards a brighter future.

About Chania and Crete

The island of Crete (also seen as Kreta or Kriti) is the most versatile and exciting destination in Greece. The natural beauty and exquisite archaeological sites, the genuine hospitality, and the scrumptious and healthy cuisine offers visitors unique experiences.

The city of Chania is the capital of the Prefecture of Chania. Archeological findings state that the city was built over the ruins of the ancient city of Kydonia and indeed Chania is a place where different civilizations have flourished throughout the centuries. The old town was built around the Venetian port and evidence can be seen from each of these civilizations. It's maze-like alleys with its beautiful Venetian mansions, fountains and elaborate churches offer visitors a plethora of routes to discover.

Travel

Chania can be easily reached either by airplane or by ferry. The airport of Chania hosts domestic flights to and from the International Airport of Athens and Thessaloniki, which can be used as connecting flights from and to major European gateway cities. Travelers from outside Europe can break up their journey in a European city of their choice or elect to keep connection time to a minimum.

Call for sponsorship

A variety of sponsorship packages are being offered for your organisation's exposure at EMEC25. The Organisers are also happy to tailor packages not currently available in this prospectus and we encourage those with interest in exposure to contact us to discuss what is possible. All listed pricing is inclusive of taxes and in Euro.

The Organizing Committee of the EMEC25 invites you and/or your organization to participate in the Conference as an:

- Gold Sponsor
- Silver Sponsor
- Advertisement Only

Exhibition space will offer opportunities for visibility, sales, and recruitment. Exhibits will be adjacent to the technical sessions. Coffee breaks of the joint events will be in the exhibits area to draw participants. Exhibits will be open for the duration of the technical conference.

If you do not see the sponsorship you are looking for, please email Prof. Elia Psillakis at emec25@tuc.gr to discuss additional options.
